

Training Session 1

The goal of this first meeting is to highlight the Biblical foundation for missions. With each training session, we have supplied article excerpts, prep documents, and time to reflect on Scripture and in prayer as a team.

Things included in this session are as follows:

- Trip Expectations, Servant Life Field Manual
- Prayer Guide
- Scripture Review: Matthew 28:18-20
- Article: "There Is No Greater Satisfaction" by John Piper
- Prayer

Trip Expectations

What are your expectations for this missions experience?

By now you have probably spent some time imagining what your mission trip will be like. You have thought about what the culture will look like, how the food will taste, what type of work you will be doing, and many other aspects of your trip.

There is nothing wrong with having expectations, but we have to hold on to them loosely. Mission trips never go exactly as planned and foreigners often have a difficult time imagining what life in another country, or even a sub-culture in their own country, will be like before they experience it. There is a good chance that many of your expectations will not be a reality, especially if this is your first time serving in another context.

It is crucial to begin a mission trip with proper expectations. Consider this equation: if (Expectations ≠ Reality); then (Reality = Frustration). Don't spend the first few days of your trip unlearning what you expected to be true prior to the trip and getting frustrated as a result. But even worse, you could miss the point of the trip altogether.

The purpose of missions is to glorify God by making disciples of Jesus Christ. Therefore, you should expect:

To serve missionaries and the local church

- Making disciples takes longer than a week, therefore, Servant Life partners with missionaries and the local churches to create long-term ministry strategies. Making-disciples is about sharing life in Christ with others. A short-term team can establish great initial connections or even deepen the faith of the local church, but the ministry must extend past the 7-10 days your team is on the ground. In order to make disciples, we support the missionaries and the local church in their mission.
- In Matthew 20:28, Jesus tells us that, "the Son of Man came not to be served but to serve, and to give his life as a ransom for many." This is what we are called to do as those who follow Christ. We are not heroes coming to save the world in a week. We come humbly with a heart to serve the Church in the way that will best help them in their ministry.

This heart of service may lead you to cleaning toilets, washing clothes, or mopping floors, but know that, “whatever you do, work heartily, as for the Lord and not for men, knowing that from the Lord you will receive the inheritance as your reward. You are serving the Lord Christ.” (Colossians 3:23-24)

To share your faith

- As we “go and make disciples” we must proclaim the Good News.
 - For “everyone who calls on the name of the Lord will be saved.” How then will they call on him in whom they have not believed? And how are they to believe in him of whom they have never heard? And how are they to hear without someone preaching? And how are they to preach unless they are sent? As it is written, “How beautiful are the feet of those who preach the good news!” (Romans 10:13-15)
- We must be sent and preach so the nations will believe and call on the name of The Lord for salvation.

To experience difficulty

- In John 16:33 Jesus says, “I have said these things to you, that in me you may have peace. In the world you will have tribulation. But take heart; I have overcome the world.” We are promised difficulty in this world. Since the fall of man this world has been warring against man. When we take mission trips, we do not escape the the sin of this world. In fact, when the Church is proclaiming the Gospel we often enter dark places and Satan is working much harder to distract us. Go into this trip expecting to experience difficulty, but know that our God is bigger than delayed flights, broken down vehicles, the weather, or any other obstacle that you may encounter.

To grow

- We have never known a person to leave a mission experience the same as they began it. Mission trips can forever alter your world-view as you become aware of the physical, spiritual, and social needs of the world. Expect to grow in your knowledge of the world you live in. Expect to grow in your love for The Lord and His people. Expect to be changed.

Pray that God will give you proper expectations for your missions experience. Pray daily throughout the trip that He will give you wisdom and discernment to handle everything that comes your way. Trust that He will never leave you, nor forsake you.

“Be still and know that I am God”
(Psalm 46:10)

Scripture Review

Matthew 28:18-20

“And Jesus said to them, “All authority has been given to me. Go therefore and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and Holy Spirit, teaching them to observe all that I have commanded you. And behold, I am with you always, to the end of the age.”

“There Is No Greater Satisfaction – A God Centered Motivation For World Missions” by John Piper

Duty is good. But delight is better. Picture me bringing a dozen roses home to my wife on our wedding anniversary. I hold them out to her at the door, she smiles and says, “Oh, Johnny, they’re beautiful, why did you?” Suppose I lift my hand in a self-effacing gesture and say, “It’s my duty.” So what’s wrong? Is duty a bad thing? No, it’s not a bad thing. But it can only take you so far. If you want romance, duty won’t reach. The right answer to my wife’s question goes like this: “I couldn’t help myself. My happiness just got out of hand. In fact, to make my day, I’d really enjoy asking you out tonight.”

The amazing thing about this answer is that it does two things that many people think won’t fit together. It expresses my happiness and makes her feel honored. A lot of people think that if I do something because it makes me happy, it can’t honor another person. But it can! Why? Because delighting in someone is a very high compliment. If you enjoy someone, two amazing things happen: you get the joy, they get the glory. Pleasure is the measure of your treasure. This is a revolutionary insight in relation to God. Here’s what it means: God is most glorified in you when you are most satisfied in Him. This is a radically life-changing discovery. It means that the pursuit of God’s glory and the pursuit of your joy are not at odds. They are, in fact, one.

The chief end of man is to glorify God BY enjoying Him forever. Not by enjoying money and comfort and prestige and power and achievement, but by enjoying HIM, God – and every other good thing for God’s sake. As St. Augustine prayed, “He loves you too little who loves anything together with you, which he loves not for your sake.” The Biblical command, “Delight yourself in the Lord,” (Psalm 37:4) is another way of saying, “Do all to the glory of God” (1 Corinthians 10:31). God is most glorified in you when you are most satisfied in Him.

And the greatest passion of God’s heart is to be glorified. He created us for His glory (Isaiah 43:7); He called Israel to be His people for His glory (Isaiah 49:3); Jesus lived (John 17:4) and died (John 12:27-28; Romans 3:25-26) and rose (Romans 6:4) and reigns (Philippians 2:11) for the glory of God; He chose us before the foundation of the world for His glory (Ephesians 1:4-6); He forgives us for His glory (Psalm 25:11; Isaiah 43:25); He works through us for His glory (1 Peter 4:11); He calls us to do all things for His glory (1 Corinthians 10:31); and His aim is that the earth will be covered with the knowledge of His glory the way the waters cover the sea (Habakkuk 2:14), and in the age to come that the glory of the Lord alone will be the awesome light of endless days (Revelation 21:23).

If the glory of God is the highest passion of His own heart, then it should be the highest passion of ours. And if God is most glorified in us when we are most satisfied in Him, then we should spare nothing to maximize our joy in Him. But where is this maximum joy to be found? Well, we have already said it: in God! Yes, but here we can make a very subtle and devastating mistake. Be careful. There is something about the nature of true joy that is restless. It is expansive by nature. It wants out. Imagine me at my son’s soccer championship, and someone saying to me, “You are permitted to have all the pleasure you want in your son’s performance, but you may not express any of it verbally or physically.” Would my joy be full? No. There is something about joy that comes to consummation when it gets out. Joy gets bigger by expanding. Joy increases by extending itself to others. My gladness gets bigger when it becomes your gladness.

This means that the human quest for joy leads straight to the missionary heart of God. You can see it already. But let me put it together. God is the fountain of joy because He is blindingly glorious, and infinitely worthy, and breathtakingly beautiful, and awesome in power, and inscrutable in wisdom, and limitless in knowledge, and tender in mercy, and terrible in wrath, and the source and foundation of all truth and goodness and beauty. When we see Him for who He really is, and turn from all the broken cisterns of the world that cannot satisfy (Jeremiah 2:13), we find “joy unspeakable and full of glory”(1 Peter 1:8).

But this joy, like all joy, wants out. It wants to expand. If it doesn't extend itself and overflow, it begins to stagnate. There is something about God that cannot be hoarded. And to hoard joy in God is to lose joy in God. But to lose joy in God is to dishonor There Is No Greater Satisfaction – A God Centered Motivation For World Missions God is most glorified in you when you are most satisfied in Him. Therefore our joy must get out—for God's sake and for our sake. God wills for His glory to be reflected in the joy of redeemed people from every tribe and tongue and nation (Revelation 7:9). He wills worldwide praise. Therefore world evangelization is the pathway to maximum joy and maximum worship. Missions is not the ultimate goal of the church. The glory of God is the ultimate goal of the church—because it's the ultimate goal of God. The final goal of all things is that God might be worshipped with white-hot affection by a redeemed company of countless persons from every tribe and tongue and people and nation (Revelation 5:9; 7:9). Missions exists because worship doesn't. When the kingdom finally comes in glory, missions will cease. Missions is penultimate, worship is ultimate. If we forget this and reverse their roles the passion and the power for both diminish. J. Campbell White, the secretary of the Laymen's Missionary Movement wrote in 1909: "Most men are not satisfied with the permanent output of their lives. Nothing can wholly satisfy the life of Christ within His followers except the adoption of Christ's purpose toward the world He came to redeem. Fame, pleasure and riches are but husks and ashes in contrast with the boundless and abiding joy of working with God for the fulfillment of His eternal plans. The men who are putting everything into Christ's undertaking are getting out of life its sweetest and most priceless rewards." This is the testimony of virtually all the great missionaries in the history of the church. Pouring out their lives brought their lives back to them. They proved again and again the words of the Lord, "He who loses his life for my sake and the gospel's will save it" (Mark 8:38). In other words, joy in God grows by expanding toward others. Jesus said to Peter, "There is no one who has left house or brother or sister or mother or father or children or lands, for my sake and for the gospel, who will not receive a hundredfold now in this time, houses and brothers and sisters and mothers and children and lands, with persecutions, and in the age to come eternal life" (Mark 10:29-30). You can't out-give God.

On December 4, 1857, David Livingstone, the great pioneer missionary to Africa, made a stirring appeal to the students of Cambridge University, showing what he had learned about these words of Jesus through the years: "For my own part, I have never ceased to rejoice that God has appointed me to such an office. People talk of the sacrifice I have made in spending so much of my life in Africa... Is that a sacrifice which brings its own blest reward in healthful activity, the consciousness of doing good, peace of mind, and a bright hope of a glorious destiny hereafter? It is emphatically no sacrifice. Say rather it is a privilege. Anxiety, sickness, suffering, or danger, now and then, with a foregoing of the common conveniences and charities of this life, may make us pause, and cause the spirit to waver, and the soul to sink; but let this only be for a moment. All these are nothing when compared with the glory which shall be revealed in and for us. I never made a sacrifice." And in saying that, Livingstone paid his God the highest tribute possible. It was not mere duty. It was a profound delight - beyond what anything in this world can give. God was glorified in him because he was satisfied in God. And his satisfaction came to consummation not with the comforts of cozy life in England, but with the expansive vision of giving his life and his joy away on the frontiers. That's it. That's the most profound, God centered motivation. It makes my heart beat faster even as I think about it again. O, may God give us eyes to see where true satisfaction can be found—to the glory of God!

Training Session 2

In this training session, the goal is to cover spiritual preparation. Through these article excerpts and practicing to share your faith we pray it sends you out better prepared than how you began this session.

Here are things to cover:

- How to Share Your Faith / Build Your Testimony, Servant Life Field Manual
 - Then practice sharing your faith with one another using these tools

Scripture Review

Acts 1:6-8

"So when they had come together, they asked him, "Lord, will you at this time restore the kingdom to Israel?" He said to them, "It is not for you to know times or seasons that the Father has fixed by his own authority. 8 But you will receive power when the Holy Spirit has come upon you, and you will be my witnesses in Jerusalem and in all Judea and Samaria, and to the end of the earth."

How To Share Your Faith

Before you go, we at Servant Life feel like it is not only important but also our responsibility to make sure that you have a clear understanding of the gospel and how to share it. After all, if we are going to make disciples, we need to be able to tell others what that means. Obviously, we don't feel that your ability to share the gospel and your testimony should only be important for your trip, but as believers we are called to be prepared in and out of season (2 Tim 4:2). Are you prepared to share your faith?

Below is a guide to help you prepare how to the share your testimony with the essential elements of the gospel. On a mission trip you may or may not have extended time to fully layout the story of salvation with those you encounter. It is important that you are able to share the Gospel in short and extended versions. We ask that you take the needed time to seriously work through the following questions. We know that it is the work of the Holy Spirit that brings about new life through Christ, but we have the responsibility to share God's good news and make disciples (Mt 28:18-20, Acts 1:8-9 & Luke 24:44-49). Our hope is that this exercise will not only prepare you, but also remind you of the goodness of God's grace through the work of Christ (Eph. 1:18-21 & 2:4-10). We look forward to serving with you this summer as we strive together to make much of Christ!

PART ONE: THE GOSPEL

Use these five elements of God's story to write the Gospel in your own words:

The Character of God
(1 John 1:5-10, Ephesians 2:1-10)

Write the Biblical truth about the character of God found in this passage:

The Sinfulness of Man
(1 John 1:5-10, Ephesians 2:1-10, Romans 3:23, 6:23)

Write the Biblical truth found in these passages:

The Sufficiency of Christ
(1 John 1:5-10, Ephesians 2:1-10)

Write the Biblical truth found in these passages

The Necessity of Faith
(1 John 1:5-10, Ephesians 2:1-10, Romans 10:9-13)
Write the Biblical truth found in these passages:

The Urgency of Eternity
(Ephesians 2:1-3, Romans 6:23)
Write the Biblical truth found in this passage:

Write in your own words (100 words or less) the five biblical truths studied above:

PART TWO: SHARING MY STORY

Work through the following questions to help you simply and clearly share your story.

I was awakened to my need for a Savior by (people, circumstances, books, etc.):

I realized that God is:

I realized that I was separated from God because:

I came to understand that Christ:

I responded to the good news of Christ's death and resurrection by:

PART THREE: PUTTING IT ALL TOGETHER

Using the five elements of the Gospel and the previous questions just answered, use the following space to share your story and the gospel. The goal is to be able to clearly articulate the Gospel and your story within 60 seconds.

“Extravagant Daily Time with Jesus” by Brogden

You believe in a financial tithe. All your resources belong to God, and you return to Him a portion of what is already His. What about your time? Does it all belong to God? Should the principle of tithing apply to your time? How extravagant are you toward Jesus with your time? Do you lavish time on Jesus? Do you give Jesus the most energetic and focused times of your day? Or do you tend to give Jesus the crumbs of your schedule? Here is what I enjoy doing in my abiding time:

Prayer

I have never been particularly good at sitting and praying. I need to pace, move, pray out loud - otherwise I get distracted; so I start my abiding time with a run - literally. I run two miles and then walk home. As I walk, I pray. I usually pray through the points of the well-known acronym ACTS

- Adoration: I praise Jesus, love Him, exalt Him, worship Him for who He is, who the Bible says He is.
- Confession: I confess my sin and failures. I also confess who God is. I recite the Apostles Creed. I often do this out loud - confessing to the powers in heaven and the homies on the bike path the wonders of who Jesus is.
- Thanksgiving: I thank Jesus for His created world, for friends, family, favor, health, blessings. For the Holy Spirit, for the prevailing blood, for the Word, for all He has done and all He is.
- Supplication: I make my petitions known to God.

Bible Reading

For my time in the Word, I daily read six chapters: three chapters from the Old Testament, one from the Psalms, one from the Gospels, and one from the Epistles. I mark up my Bible like crazy, make notes in the margins, and try to summarize one key thought on top of each column. This usually takes about an hour.

Supplemental Reading

I often read from a devotional or spiritual classic. Francois Fenelon, Oswald Chambers, Richard Foster, and C.S. Lewis are all favorites.

Memorization

I try to spend about five minutes a day memorizing Scripture.

Praise

I end my time by banging out some hymns and choruses on the piano. I sing and express my adoration to Jesus in somewhat off-key enthusiasm.

Dick Brogden has been living and working among Muslims in North Africa since 1992.

“Abiding Leads to Fruit” by Dick Brogden

Extravagant daily time with Jesus— This is the center of abiding. Not legalism, not dry discipline, not manufactured spirituality, but joyous soaking in the presence of Jesus, lavish spending of time with Him who is most precious, Him from whom all life flows. In a world that is over connected yet lonely, frantically busy yet accomplishing little of eternal value, super informed but egregiously ignorant on what really matters, abiding is a call to give Jesus the best of our time that He in turn leads us to the best of times.

God’s Heartbeat

The Bible is a missiological masterpiece. From Beginning to end, God unveils his grand design to be glorified by every tribe, tongue, people, and nation. Missions is not a New Testament addition. Missions is God’s heartbeat from Genesis to Revelation. The Gospel of John is no exception. John is full of non-Jews finding the Savior of the world. John repeats a “sending” motif: Jesus sent by the Father to save sinners, the disciples sent by Jesus to make disciples of all nations. By the time we get to John 15, Jesus is at the end of his earthly ministry. The teaching of Jesus in John 15 takes place on the night He is arrested in Gethsemane. He is giving His disciples one last charge. He is pouring out His heart as to what is important. John uses the metaphor of the vine in harvest mode. Jesus is life (the vine), the Father sustains the vine and the vineyard, and the disciples are the branches. Branches are intended to bear fruit (other disciples), and are guaranteed to do so if they abide. Bearing fruit is in fact guaranteed (John 15:5) if the disciples abide. Let’s look at the text to see what it teaches on the nature of abiding and fruit.

Abiding

The Greek word for abiding (meno) is connected to the Latin maneo— meaning “house.” From it we derive the English word “mansion.” Abiding means to remain in one place, at a given time, with someone, to dwell with someone. John uses meno to express a reciprocal indwelling: We are in Jesus and Jesus is in us. We linger in Him and He lingers in us. We live in Him and He lives in us. He is the source of life, He is the sap, and this interaction is both constant and with special times of union. It is both the journey and the destination. Abiding is elongated, patient waiting in the presence of Jesus. Abiding is extravagant (concentrated) daily times with Jesus and all-day awareness. Abiding is constant communion in the midst of a crowded world and busy life and unique times of sweet, exclusive fellowship . Abiding implies extravagance. When John uses “meno,” there is always a sense of endurance, continuance, tarrying, and waiting with expectancy over time. Men and women of God through the centuries have lived out this abiding truth. There are no heroes of the faith who did not live out this extravagant lavishing of their time on Jesus. When we examine their private lives, we see that they needed to abide for strength and wisdom. They were addicted to extravagant time in the presence of Jesus because it gave them life and joy and was the only thing that fulfilled them. Abiding is both active and passive. Abiding is passive in the sense that Jesus pursues us and invites us to rest in His presence. Abiding is active in the reality that the spiritual disciplines position us to receive the life of Jesus—His heavenly sap. Discipline leads us to desire, which matures into delight.

Fruit

The Greek word for fruit is “karpos.” Scholars have assigned various meanings to fruit according to context , including Christ like character, confession of Christ’s name in praise, contribution to those in need, conduct in general, and as those converted through one’s witness. The New Testament has a variety of of understandings for “fruit.” John, however, has a distinct and sharply focused use of the word. Of the eleven uses of “karpos” in John (ten are in John 15 and one is in John 4), all can be understood to be in the context of harvest. “Karpos” literally means “that which is harvested—harvest, crop, fruit, grain.” The sense is an external yield that can be gathered. While not unique in the New Testament in this regard, Joh —especially in chapter 15 of his Gospel—seems to emphasize that the fruit of abiding is a harvest of people.

Building Blocks

There is no standardized formula for abiding, but Scripture and the biographies of men and women through the ages points us to two nonnegotiables: The Word of God and prayer. Extended daily time in the Word and in the presence of Jesus through prayer are the basic building blocks of abiding. Jesus spent close to 90 percent of His life in a village of twelve families, and even His three years of ministry were characterized by time alone with the Father. Moses spent forty years in Midian and had multiple trips to the mountain with God.

Paul spent thirteen years in preparation, some of it in the Arabian Desert, and prayed constantly. Adam, Joseph, David, Elijah, Daniel, Mary, John, and others all gave God extravagant time. When we examine the lives of any heroes of the faith, we can see that they lingered daily with Jesus. David Livingstone, the nineteenth century pioneer medical missionary, once said, "Shall I tell you what sustained me amidst the trials and hardships and loneliness of my exiled life? . . . It was a promise, the promise of a gentleman of the sacred honor. It was the promise: 'Lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world.'" John York, no stranger to pressure, dying too young from leukemia, expounds on Livingstone's thought and reminds us, "There is no 'Go' without 'Lo.'" First we are called to Jesus; He is with us always, and we with Him, then we go . . . to the uttermost parts and pressures of the earth. At Livingstone's death, his body was found bent in prayer, kneeling at his bed. His Bible was open to Matthew 28. In the margin was this small notation: "The word of a Gentleman." Eric Liddell of "Chariots on Fire" won a gold medal in the 1924 Olympics in the 400 meters—an event he had not trained for but ran in because his favorite event, the 100 meter dash, was scheduled to be run on Sunday. In 1925, Liddell went to China as a missionary. He was arrested by the Japanese occupiers and incarcerated in a concentration camp. A fellow prisoner watched him die and noted: "What was his secret? He unreservedly committed his life to Jesus Christ as his Savior and Lord. That friendship meant everything to him. By the flickering light of a peanut-oil lamp early each morning, he studied the Bible and talked with God an hour every day. As a Christian, Eric Liddell's desire was to know God more deeply; and as a missionary, to make him known more fully." George Muller is famed for a life of prayer, trusting God to provide food and finances for the hundreds of children sheltered in his orphanages. Mueller said, "I look upon it as a lost day when I have not had a good time over the Word of God." When Mueller was in his eighties, he was asked by a group of seminary students, "Mr. Mueller . . . what is your secret?" He pushed his chair back and began to bend his old limbs to the floor as he knelt in prayer. "This," he said, "this is the secret."

The Proof of Discipleship

In John 15, John introduces three branches. The first branch (15:2a) is in Christ but not producing disciples. That branch will be nurtured and taught to abide so that divine life will flow and disciples will be made. The second branch (15:2b) is the disciple of Christ who does make disciples. This disciple is disciplined (pruned), allowed to pass through difficulty and suffering, that he or she might be even more effective in making disciples. The third branch (15:6) is the disciple who does not lavish on Jesus extravagant daily time. Branches are not forced to abide. We are not forced to spend extravagant daily time with Jesus, but if we don't we will become so dry that we separate from the vine. We will be burned (disposed of) as we are not accomplishing our intended purpose (bearing disciples) and so are good for nothing. In Jesus' missiological thinking, disciples are sent to harvest disciples. The power to harvest disciples comes from giving extravagant time to Jesus on a daily basis in order to draw life from Him. Disciples who do not lavish extravagant daily time on Jesus will not harvest disciples, and the Father then lifts them out of ministry so they can learn to abide in Him—this is the first branch. Disciples who do not respond to this grace period, this invitation to focus on drawing life from Jesus, eventually become hard, stiff, and resistant to God's overtures, so He lets them fall to the ground where they wither and disconnect themselves from the vine. There is nothing left for them but to be gathered and burned. Disciples who lavish extravagant daily time on Jesus will harvest disciples, and their reward is the joy of participating in the sufferings of Christ with the purpose of being used to bring even more disciples into the Kingdom.

When the Word of God abides in us, then our prayers are answered. This prayer, according to Jesus, is inescapably linked to mission. "You did not choose me, but I chose you and appointed you that you should go and bear fruit and that your fruit should abide, so that whatever you ask the Father in my name, he may give it to you (John 15:16)." John Piper writes, "Notice the amazing logic of this verse . . . He gave them a mission 'in order that' the Father would have prayers to answer. This means that prayer is for mission. It is designed to advance the kingdom." The Greek text in John 15:8 indicates a process: As we obey God and make disciples, we become disciples. Making disciples is then, in essence, proof that we are disciples. Our own discipleship is an ongoing formation, and as we glorify the Father—by abiding in Jesus, allowing His Word to abide in us, praying for the things on His heart, and bearing many new disciples—we both are and increasingly become His disciples.

Training Session 3

In this training session, the goal is to cover spiritual preparation. Through these article excerpts and practicing to share your faith we pray it sends you out better prepared than how you began this session.

Here are things to cover:

- Customs and Cultural Guidelines
- Witness Well
- Scripture Review: John 20:21-22
- Article: "Cross Cultural Servanthood" by Duane Elmer
- Prayer

Customs & Cultural Guidelines

- Other cultures are generally not strict about time. They value flexibility and hospitality over rigid schedules and appointments. They are people, not task, oriented.
- Communication is often less direct than Westerners. People don't necessarily say what they think but value being able to read into a situation.
- There is a strong belief in spirits, ghosts, jinn and the supernatural. Those beliefs are rarely questioned.
- Religion and politics are not taboo subjects and are often discuss-ed. Avoid offering your opinion, simply learn
- Most cultures are very respectful to people based on age and title, whereas Westerners tend to respect people based on achievement.
- In many cultures most everything is done with the right hand (eating, handing over money or things, etc.). The left hand is considered unclean. Always use the right hand for waving, pointing or getting someone's attention.
- Shaking hands is done between members of the same sex. If a woman offers her hand to a man he may shake it, but men usually do not offer their hand to a woman.
- Shoes are removed before entering a home.
- When visiting a Muslim home, you may be seated on the floor. Men and woman sit separately. Men sit with their legs crossed and women sit with their legs back to one side. Do not prop your feet up on anything such as a desk or coffee table.
- It is considered polite to give a small gift after staying in someone's home. This is given at the end of the stay and is not opened in front of the giver. It is a good idea to bring some small gifts from the US to give to friends when leaving.

7 Ways to Make a Fool of Yourself

1. Handing someone money, gifts, things, whatever with your left hand. The left hand is normally reserved for things you don't want to know about.
2. Disparaging someone's religion. Putting down someone's religion is the quickest way to break harmony.
3. Wearing shoes inside a house. No one wants your nasty, dirty shoes on their floor. Seriously, do you realize what you walked through outside? Don't you know people eat on the floor?
This same principle applies for places of worship too (mosques, temples, etc.).
4. Touching in public between opposite sexes will always get a glowering stare from the locals... and sometimes the local police (just ask the tourists put in jail for PDA a few years back).
5. Refusing to eat food given to you. It's okay to not like something, but at least eat some. Did you know if you eat durian 3 times you end up liking it?
6. Dressing immodestly. Honestly, this is expected of a Westerner. Change their expectations - dress modestly.
7. Being a loud Westerner. Loud people are looked down on in many cultures.

Witness Well

Goals:

- 1) To get people to understand and admit that they are lost.
- 2) To show the difference between salvation by grace and salvation by works.
- 3) To filter open people by using the gospel.
- 4) To either invite the person to receive Christ or to end the initial witnessing conversation with the person on a good note, making follow-up possible.

1) GET CONNECTED

Build rapport through small talk, usually 15 minutes.

- “How are you?” and “Who are you?”

2) GET TO THE POINT

Transition to spiritual matters

- Pray for an open door, but if it doesn't open up, “Which religion do you follow?”

3) GET THEM LOST

Reveal common sin problem and frustration of failing in our religious duties by letting them talk about their religious experience.

- “Almost all religions are the same, aren't they?”
 - The point of religion is to try to do good and be good enough to please God, so that God will receive us. Almost all religions are concerned with doing good things to offset our sins, but we never get our sins paid off.
 - We are all frustrated, aren't we? We try our best to please God, but fail continually, leaving us frustrated.
- We are all sinners, aren't we?
 - Our sin debt gets larger instead of smaller, doesn't it?, because we sin every day, don't we?
- What are you doing to get your sins forgiven? (let them talk about it, then ask the following questions)
 - Are your sins paid off yet?
 - When will they be paid off?
 - In eternity, will your sins be forgiven?

4) GET THE GOSPEL TO THEM

Brief presentation of the gospel to show how you're sure your sins are forgiven because of Jesus' death and resurrection, usually 5-8 min.

- "What I believe is different from that."
 - My sins are already paid off, and it's not because of the good things I do. By the way, you're probably a better person than I am.
- My sins are paid off because God himself has made a way to forgive sins.
 1. Jesus came from Heaven and was born of a virgin.
 2. Jesus lived a holy life.
 - a. Jesus never sinned, although tempted.
 - b. Jesus never married, was from the ordinary class rather than from the upper class, and early in his public ministry fasted for 40 days and 40 nights.
 - c. Jesus performed mighty miracles, including raising people from the dead.
 - d. Jesus began prophesying to his followers that He was going to surrender Himself to evil rulers and would be killed to pay for people's sins, and would rise again 3 days later.
 1. All of our forefathers gave blood sacrifices to have their sins forgiven (Adam and Eve, Cain and Abel, Noah, Abraham, Moses).
 - a. Adam and Eve
 - b. 1 sin brought severe punishment from God although they had done many good deeds
 - c. Animal skins given by God showed that a blood sacrifice had been offered to forgive their sins.
 2. John the Baptist – "Behold the Lamb of God that takes away the sin of the world."
 3. According to the Law, Prophets, Psalms, and the Gospel (NT), "without the shedding of blood, there is no forgiveness of sins."
 3. Jesus died to pay our sin debt, and then three days later he was raised from the dead, proving that God received Jesus' sacrifice.
 4. The Gospel says that if we believe Jesus paid for our sins with His death, and surrender ourselves to Him as Lord, we will be saved. That's why I know my sins are forgiven, and it's not because I'm a better person than you, because I know you're probably a better person than me.

5) GET ON WITH IT

- If not open to the gospel, share the gospel briefly, then change the subject.
- If open to the gospel
 - Invite them to receive Christ.
 - Briefly tell them the other sacrifice stories.
 - Invite them to invite friends to study the sacrifice stories.

Common Difficulty

- "I think God will forgive my sins, because He is merciful."
 - o Answer: God has said there is only one way He will forgive sins, that is through blood sacrifices.

Scripture Review

John 20:21-22

“Jesus said to them again, “Peace be with you. As the Father has sent me, even so I am sending you.” And when he had said this, he breathed on them and said to them, “Receive the Holy Spirit.”

Book Digest of "Cross Cultural Servanthood"

by Duane Elmer

Duane Elmer is Professor of International Studies at Trinity Evangelical Divinity School in Deerfield, Illinois. Elmer has lots of wisdom and experience in international contexts. He spent four years as a professor in South Africa and has ministered in over seventy-five different countries. He writes about cross-cultural ministry as one with practical experience. Elmer admits early that he is inadequate to be writing a book on servanthood (Pg.14). In fact, he confesses, "...I have procrastinated in every way possible, hoping to avoid this moment. Yet here I am writing and still resisting, certainly feeling inadequate. But I am convinced God has birthed this work—at least I pray so. (Pg.14)"

Cross-Cultural Servanthood is a book about a difficult topic, but necessary for those engaging in Great Commission work. Elmer is accurate in acknowledging his own shortcomings, so he devotes the majority of the book to highlighting the only true servant, Jesus Christ. The purpose and thesis of the book is to examine what it means to be a cross-cultural servant. The key theme is servanthood. Philippians 2 and the example of Christ is the underlying foundation of the book. Jesus is the example and picture of true servanthood. Elmer does a good job throughout the book of raising the standard for what it means to be an effective cross-cultural witness.

Elmer divides the book into three separate parts. Part I (Chapters 1-3) provides the foundational framework of servanthood. Part II (Chapters 4 - 10) examine the various components of servanthood. Part III (Chapters 11-14) highlights the implications of servanthood in everyday life and leadership. Elmer begins in Part I by laying out the challenges and realities of cross-cultural servanthood. He shares that as he interacted with national Christians around the world, the majority of them suggested that missionaries possess an attitude of superiority (Pg.15). This elitist stance by missionaries is a barrier to the gospel and the fulfillment of the Great Commission. Furthermore, the challenge of cross-cultural communication is an often-overlooked reality. Missionaries seeking to be servants in a new culture often struggle to adapt and effectively communicate biblical truth in a culturally acceptable and relevant manner.

Elmer uses two examples in chapters 2-3 that are particularly helpful in thinking through servanthood. First, is the towel and robe analogy from Matthew's Gospel (Pg.23). Jesus is with his disciples and the mother of James and John asks for one of her sons to be positioned on each side of Jesus and recognized as great. Elmer contrasts this request in light of the example of Christ in taking a towel and washing the feet of his disciples. The question Elmer poses to the reader is will you take the towel like Christ or demand the robe like the disciples? This convicting truth exposes the selfish heart of humanity in comparison to the humble servanthood of Christ. Second, is the monkey and fish analogy in chapter 3. Elmer uses the metaphor of a monkey grabbing a fish out of the water in attempt to help to the fish. The result is the death of the fish (Pg. 27). The monkey had good intentions, but his intentions were misguided. This truth is applied to the missionary context where good intentioned missionaries often make crucial mistakes in their new cultural context. The issue is not the intention; the issue is the action and the way in which it is perceived by the host culture. Many missionaries come to the field and subconsciously bring a savior mentality with them from home. They desire to help, but often do so from a position of superiority with little regard for the host culture and taking the necessary time to understand the culture and context.

Elmer utilizes Part II (chapters 4-10) to illustrate the process of servanthood. Servanthood is not the default attitude of humanity and therefore must be developed and cultivated. He breaks this down into six core principles of servanthood: openness, acceptance, trust, learning, understanding, and serving. His argument is that servanthood is a process and includes a breadth of characteristics and traits.

Elmer defines openness as, "the ability to welcome people into your presence and make them feel safe. (Pg.39)" Openness requires one to step out of their comfort zone and initiate relationships with people of other cultures. One of the primary indicators of openness is hospitality. Hospitality demonstrates the willingness to bring others into one's life. Another aspect of openness is judgment concerning relationships. Elmer shares research that suggests it takes the average American between 2.4 and 4.6 seconds to decide whether or not to have a relationship with a new acquaintance. One of the barriers to servanthood is pride and fear of those who are different. Openness is the first principle of in the process of servanthood.

Acceptance is the second principle and defined as, "the ability to communicate value, worth and esteem to another person. (Pg.58)" Acceptance means including people regardless of their external features. In this chapter, Elmer references the image of God as a key feature in accepting one another. If every person on earth is created in the image of God, they possess worth and value to the creator. Elmer lists a few factors that limit one's ability to accept others: language, impact, ethnocentrism, category width, and dogmatism. Perhaps ethnocentrism is one of the biggest barriers to acceptance. Each person believes their home culture is superior to other cultures and this perspective hinders one's ability to be accepting of others. Acceptance is the second principle of servanthood.

Trust is the third principle from Elmer relating to servanthood. He defines trust as, "the ability to build confidence in a relationship so that both parties believe the other will not intentionally hurt them but will act in their best interest (Pg. 77)." Trust is something that takes time to develop. Everyone is skeptical of those they meet for the first time, especially in cross-cultural settings. One of the reasons trust is difficult is that it often requires vulnerability and transparency. Yet, trust is essential for any friendship or relationship to function, and takes intentional time, energy, and effort to develop and maintain. Trust is the third principle of servanthood.

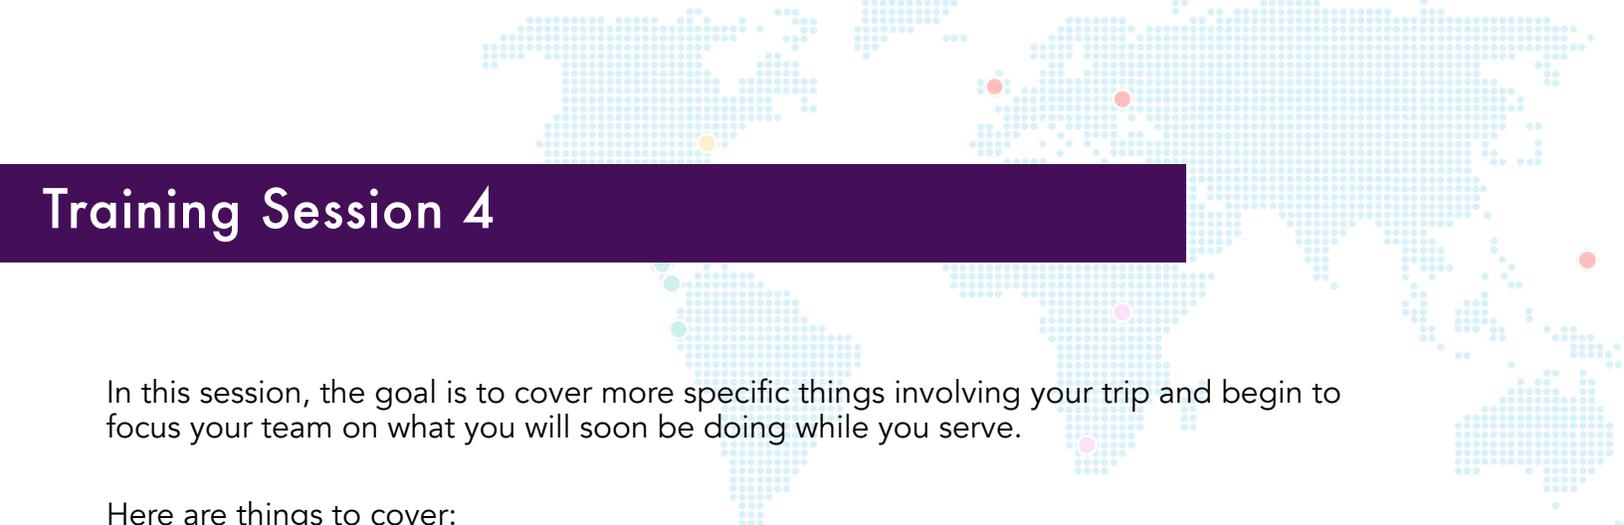

Learning is the next principle and the one in which Elmer devotes the most attention. Learning is difficult without a foundation of trust, acceptance, and openness. He defines learning as, "the ability to glean relevant information about, from and with other people (Pg. 93)." Elmer argues that many from the Western world suffer from the virus of the educated person. In other words, most people coming from "educated" cultures believe they are not able to learn from those they perceive to be less educated or spiritual. Furthermore, he argues that as a result of everyone person being created in the image of God and God's common grace that there are atheists, Hindu's, Muslim's, and others that can contribute to our learning (Pg. 109). He closes by commenting on the various skills attached to learning: listening, responding, and dialogue. Learning is the fourth principle examined by Elmer in the process of servanthood.

Understanding is the fifth principle listed by Elmer. He defines it as, "the ability to see patterns of behavior and values that reveal the integrity of a people (Pg.125)." The ability to understand a new culture and context takes time. The tendency of those thrust into a new culture is to quickly compare the new culture with their home culture. Adapting to a new culture can be a challenging transition. In this chapter, Elmer emphasizes the importance of resisting ethnocentrism. As stress rises, one must remember that the big picture and motivation for entering a new context is disciple making and the glory of God to the ends of the earth. Understanding is the fifth principle included in servanthood.

Lastly, serving is the sixth principle listed by Elmer. He defines serving as, "the ability to relate to people in such a way that their dignity as human beings is affirmed and they are more empowered to live God-glorifying lives (Pg.146)." Elmer argues that one cannot serve without understanding. Serving is the culmination of the other attributes and characteristics. Serving is the central and final piece of servanthood. Inherent to serving is the perspective of esteeming others as more significant than yourself. This is the attitude and mind of Christ that believers are encouraged to cultivate in their own lives.

Part III deals briefly with the implications of servanthood as it relates to leadership. Elmer argues that servanthood is essential to effective and empowering leadership. In these closing chapters, he addresses the servant and leadership, the servant and power, the servant and mystery, and Joseph as the model servant. It is somewhat of a cliché to talk about servant leadership, but Elmer does an admirable job describing the responsibility of leaders to be servant minded. He argues that power and influence are given for service. He closes the book by portraying Joseph as the model servant.

In conclusion, I believe Elmer's book has many good insights and is very beneficial to those engaging in missionary life and work. This book is applicable to believers regardless of the context. The principles laid out by Elmer are transferable to all cultural contexts. This is the beauty of deriving truths from the Bible. God's revelation to humanity is timeless and profitable for people of every cultural context. Entering and engaging a new culture with the gospel is difficult. Elmer's book, I believe, accurately portrays that reality, but also provides wisdom and insight as to how one is to approach that task. The primary example he points to throughout the book is the example of Christ. Every believer is to cultivate and develop the attitude and mind of Christ. After all, He (Jesus) is the only true servant.

Training Session 4

In this session, the goal is to cover more specific things involving your trip and begin to focus your team on what you will soon be doing while you serve.

Here are things to cover:

- Culture Shock
- Servant Life Mission Principles
- Packing List / Airfare Tips
- How to Ruin a Short-Term Trip
- Scripture Review: Revelation 7:9-10
- Prayer

Culture Shock

It may not seem like it, but culture shock is a big deal. Any time you experience another country, culture, people group, and way of living, it takes some adjusting. Not everyone experiences culture shock, but it's still important to recognize it and know how to deal with it.

Culture shock is characterized by an anxious feeling from being surrounded by completely new things. You are so accustomed to life in America that it may overwhelm you to all of a sudden find yourself in a culture that you know nothing about.

The best thing you can do when it comes to culture shock is to keep an open mind about your new experiences. Remember that people around the world think and act differently than you. Keep an understanding mind about others' opinions. The worst thing you can do is to think that you are superior to someone of a different culture or people group.

Along with keeping an open mind, it's important to be flexible as well. You will be experiencing a new culture and things may not always go your way. In fact, you probably already know that things will rarely go your way. Remember to be easy going when new plans arise. This also includes maintaining a positive attitude instead of complaining.

If you're feeling some culture shock, communicate that with the people on your team. Chances are good that someone else may be feeling the same way or can at least help you through it. Being able to identify with others about your thoughts can help you not be overcome with culture shock.

Keep in mind that if you experience culture shock, that does not mean you are a failure. Everyone adjusts differently to a new setting. You may not even identify with culture shock. However, if you do, it's important to be aware of what to do so that it does not become a problem.

Servant Life Mission Principles

Servant Life seeks to equip and encourage trip participants as you prepare for your experience.

Outlined below you will find a list of character traits along with Scripture references. As you begin to process the attitude and posture of your heart and prepare for the trip, pray the Lord will supply you with these Christ-like traits.

1. Humility

- Go with a humble heart attuned to the Lord's plans for the trip, not your own agenda. You are not going to "fix" anything, but rather to selflessly serve alongside the long-term missionary partners. Fervently pray against pride creeping into your heart.
 - Do nothing from rivalry or conceit, but in humility count others more significant than yourselves. Let each of you look not only to his own interests, but also to the interests of others. {Philippians 2:3-4}
 - When pride comes, then comes disgrace, but with the humble is wisdom. {Proverbs 11:2}

2. Flexibility

- A mission experience exposes you to different cultures, which often times means the schedule isn't always predictable. Having a "go with the flow" attitude is crucial, as plans may change from day to day. Flexibility allows you to continually find joy in each circumstance.
 - I desire to do your will, my God; your law is within my heart. {Psalm 40:8}
 - Rejoice always, pray without ceasing, give thanks in all circumstances; for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus for you. {1 Thessalonians 5:16-18}

3. Patience

- Patience is key as you encounter new people, places and cultures. Things may not always go as planned, and communication with locals may not always be as easy. Pray for the Lord to equip you with an attitude that is slow to speak and quick to listen.
 - Know this, my beloved brothers: let every person be quick to hear, slow to speak, slow to anger. {James 1:19}
 - May God who gives patience, steadiness, and encouragement help you to live in complete harmony with each other – each with the attitude of Christ toward the other. {Romans 15:5}

4. Perseverance

- You may experience unfamiliar or difficult situations while serving; therefore perseverance is important. The Lord will supply you with the strength to make it through each and every circumstance.
 - Let us not become weary in doing good, for at the proper time we will reap a harvest if we do not give up. {Galatians 6:9}
 - Blessed is the man who perseveres under trial, because when he has stood the test, he will receive the crown of life that God has promised to those who love him. {James 1:12}

5. Love

- Love is central to each and every character trait that a Christ-follower embodies through the indwelling of the Holy Spirit. Love always, often, deeply, sacrificially, selflessly, and unconditionally.
 - Love is patient, love is kind. It does not envy, it does not boast, it is not proud. It is not rude, it is not self-seeking, it is not easily angered, it keeps no record of wrongs. {1 Corinthians 13:4-5}
 - And over all these virtues put on love, which binds them all together in perfect unity. {Colossians 3:14}

Airline Restrictions/Tips

Arrive early for check-in at the airport. Because you are flying, we strongly suggest arriving at least three hours before your flight is scheduled to depart. This allows time for parking, shuttle transportation, check-in, and security checks.

Label all of your luggage. Servant Life provides each trip participant with two luggage tags that we strongly recommend your group using. This will help when collecting luggage from baggage claim. Due to the similar look of most luggage, you may also want to set your bag apart in another way by adding a ribbon, luggage strap, or sticker in a visible location.

Always have your passport with you. While traveling through airports, it is important to always have your passport with you. Do not pack it in your checked luggage, and do not put it in the pocket of your airplane seat. It is best to keep it in a secure section of your carry on luggage.

Checked Baggage

We recommend that everyone travel with one checked bag. It is helpful if everyone can manage their own luggage while traveling. Remember that luggage with wheels will make life much easier as you maneuver through airports! Also, be sure to put a copy of your passport information page in every piece of your luggage.

Carry-On Bags

It is always a good idea to keep a change of clothes as well as a small toiletries kit (toothbrush, deodorant, etc.) with you in your carry-on in the event of flight delays or cancellations. Your passport counts as your form of identification and you must keep this on you at all times in the airports. You may not carry-on liquids of any kind larger than 3 oz. Any liquids 3 oz. or smaller must be in their original container and in a quart-sized Ziploc bag.

Baggage policies are based on airline regulations and change often. Please visit your airline's website before you leave for their latest baggage policies. Any costs associated with checking bags or overweight bags are solely the responsibility of the participant.**

How To Ruin Your Short Term Mission Trip

1. Have an "It's all about me" attitude. The best way to ruin your mission trip is to act as if everything revolves around your comfort and your wants and needs. Even if you are sacrificing time and resources to go and serve, don't expect others to worship the ground you walk on. Read Philippians 2:3-8 and consider the humble attitude of Christ.

2. By all means, don't be flexible. If you don't live out the words of Philippians 2:14 to "do all things without grumbling or questioning," then you are guaranteed to have a trip full of complaints. There is not a formula to mission trips; you should expect a high degree of flexibility when you are serving real people and meeting real needs. Please be a blessing to work with and a joy to be around, not the person complaining that your expectations aren't being met.

3. Don't devote yourself to prayer or time in the Word. Spending time talking to the Lord and studying His word only ensures that your heart will be aligned with His will. Failure to draw near to the Lord will set you up to have the wrong attitude, and possibly the wrong actions. Furthermore, in order to tell others about the spiritual disciplines of prayer and Bible study, we ourselves must practice those disciplines.

4. Start thinking your mission trip is terrible because you didn't see much fruit. It is likely that you might not see hundreds of people come to know Christ while you are there, but that does not mean your trip was a bust. 1 Corinthians 3:6 reminds us that there are stages of planting seeds, watering, and seeing growth. As a short term team, you are largely helping to plant and water seeds-- and ultimately God gets the glory in their growth!

(We want you to have the best mission trip possible. So please do the opposite of these 4 things. Always keep the Lord and the gospel in the forefront of your mind!)

Scripture Review

Revelation 7:9-10

"After this I looked, and behold, a great multitude that no one could number, from every nation, from all tribes and peoples and languages, standing before the throne and before the Lamb, clothed in white robes, with palm branches in their hands, and crying out with a loud voice, "Salvation belongs to our God who sits on the throne, and to the Lamb!"
